For the Whiskers and Hair.

The manufacturer takes pleasure in announcing to the States of the United States, and Canada, that they have obtained the highest honors for their celebrated American product, the above partly colored and now renowned.

THE STIMULATING OINTMENT
is prepared by Dr. C. P. BELLINGHAM, no eminent chemist and physician, who has been for many years in the service of the British Government.

WHISKERS OR A MUSTACHE
is the result of old whiskers. This article is the only of the kind ever by the French, and in England and France.

It is a beautiful, aromatic, soothing, yet stimulating preparation, which will cause the hair to grow beautiful growth of a natural hair. It is applied to the face, and the hair grows in a few days. It is a place of hair upon a line growth of new hair. Applied several times a day, it will cause the hair to grow in a few months and be in the condition of new hair.

In every gentleman's hand, and after two weeks' trial in my private cabinet, I have no doubt as to its superiority over all other preparations.
The substance may be easily applied for the relief of hemorrhoids, by introducing it into the rectum
with the finger.

It is also useful in the case of all Druggists or Dealers, or in lack of the Quinine? (whom you can find) in the treatment of the above mentioned disease, by applying it to the seat of pain, or

YOUNG MEN.

There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, the habit, often growing up with them to manhood, and which is not reformed by them in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted insidious, and devastating affections. Self abuse is one of the most formidable enemies to health, for nothing else in the catalogue of human diseases causes so destructive a drain upon the human system, drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system rapidly, wastes away

The Farm

Items on Agricultural Experience

From the Ontario Farmer

1. All soils are not equally fertile or productive.

2. After drainage, subsoiling and the rough pulverization of the soil, the crop is improved.

3. There is no soil so poor and sterile but some manure may be found to fertilize it.

4. Plowing and sowing may be productive by spreading a thick coat of straw over the soil to rot in a year or two till decayed, and then sowing seed on the straw without plowing, and afterwards sowing a manure when applied to sown crops.

5. Seeding late to clover, and feeding of the clover by stock on the ground, is especially, in the cheapest and easiest mode of enriching the soil. According to Van Thout, it adds 40 per cent to its fertility every year.

6. Green crops plowed under are powerful auxiliaries in rendering a light soil fertile. The "off" of this does too much to the soil, it eventually renders the soil too carbonaceous—i.e., too full of vegetable matter.

7. The productivity of the land depends greatly on the nature of the soil, and the soil is cold, wet and poor, all efforts to improve the soil will be in vain, unless recourse is first had to draining.

8. Enrichment of the soil by clover crops on them, unless the organic elements abstracted by the crops are again restored to the soil in the shape of manure.

9. Deep plowing is beneficial on all soils that are not wet, and is the most so when done in fall.

10. Deep plowing in the fall is a most valuable means of preparing the soil for the next year's crop.

11. To sow successive grain crops on the same ground, the land is in a foul state.

12. Summer fallowing, although apparently a waste of land, and, in fact, it is not, it is a most valuable means of preparing the soil for the next year's crop.
